Policing Budget Information 2026/27

A message from
Nicolle Ndiweni-Roberts
Derbyshire Police and Crime Commissioner

This year's policing budget has been shaped by the views of people and communities across Derbyshire and Derby City. I have continued to listen closely to residents about your priorities for community safety and what matters most in your local area.

Despite ongoing funding challenges, we made strong progress last year. Under the government's Neighbourhood Guarantee, we increased Police Officer numbers, and since launching our dedicated ASB Hotspot Patrols in July 2023, anti-social behaviour has fallen by 24% in hotspot locations. In the year to October 2025, violence against women and girls fell by 1.2% compared with the previous year. Increased targeted police activity, including stop and search, led to a 33.6% rise in drug possession detections, reflecting our proactive approach to tackling drug dealing in our neighbourhoods.

There has also been a 24.3% reduction in deaths or serious injuries caused by unlawful driving, which was supported by targeted work on killed or serious injury (KSI) collisions. We have responded to growing concerns about e-scooters by seizing more than 700 since November 2024, compared with just over 140 in the previous three years.

Our Immediate Justice scheme continues to deliver meaningful results, with over 70% of participants who completed the scheme not reoffending.

Together with our partners, we remain committed to preventing and tackling serious violence and keeping our communities safe. Ensuring the Chief Constable and the Force have the resources to manage both emerging and existing risks is essential, particularly as policing demand and the complexity of that demand continues to rise.

I am grateful to everyone who took part in the largest budget survey we have ever carried out in Derbyshire. Notably, 73% of respondents said they were willing to pay £15 more per year, which will be £1.25 a month for a Band D property, to help protect vital services, tackle crime, support victims and build safer and stronger communities.

Thank you for your continued support.
